

Abstract of the Disclosure

[0023] A method and system for delivering personalized, location-sensitive information to a user device comprising an information network interface for collecting, filtering and storing information and a broadcast network for delivering, as broadcast information, some or all of the collected information to a user device. The user device filters the broadcast information in accordance with a user's personal preferences and a user's location.

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176